Domaine de la Pousse d'Or
Corton "Clos du Roi" 2015
Burgundy, France

Score: 92-95

There is a pronounced ripeness to the less elegant and much more savage-inflected aromas of cassis, plum liqueur, freshly turned earth and forest floor nuances. The palate impression though is more like that of the Bressandes in that it's muscular yet reasonably refined while evidencing focused power on the well-balanced and gorgeously persistent finish. I very much like the mouth feel thanks to the dense but fine-grained tannins and this should also amply reward extended cellaring.
